Reading Assignments:

Reading and understanding assignments is essential to a successful and growing educational experience. The process is quite simple: if one does not do the assignments, one will not pass the course with a satisfactory grade. Read all assignments, secondary materials, and handouts before the class meets. Knowledge of these materials is essential to understand the subject, follow lectures, participate in discussions, and do acceptable written work.

Class attendance and class participation are mandatory. Each student is responsible for all materials covered during class. Each student will co-facilitate one class. Facilitated and group participation are quintessential for understanding and total educational development. Lectures reinforce reading but will not repeat content verbatim. Your registration in class is a contract with yourself and the class to do your best.

Course Assignments

Students will write the following assignments: three reaction papers, one research paper, and a poster presentation. SUBMIT ALL PAPERS VIA EMAIL to bryantja@shawu.edu:

Papers: Below please see the list of the required paper assignments. The papers will reflect your critical thinking and examination of assigned subject matter. Each student is expected to apply their writing skills to prepare his/her paper. Your grade will, in part, be determined by your treatment of the topic, your original, critical thinking, and your use of proper grammar and punctuation.

1. Three five page, double-spaced reaction papers: to demonstrate competency of the theological, situational and practical applications of pastoral care and counseling. Paper #1 Due February 21, 2009; Paper #2 Due March 21, 2009; Paper #3 Due April 25, 2009
2. One poster presentation related with supporting essay. Due April 25, 2009
3. One 15 page double-spaced research paper to develop a model of pastor care and counseling in a local parish. Due May 2, 2009

All papers must be typed or printed via a word processor. Papers less than or exceeding stipulated limits will not be acceptable. This page limit applies only to the text proper, not the table of contents or bibliography. All research papers are to use library resources: books, journal articles, and on-line, electronic resources, preferably from documents found via NCLIVE (www.nclive.org); ATLA; or www.ccel.org. All sources must have proper documentation; that is footnotes and bibliography or works cited. Please use Turabian (Chicago Manual of Style), sixth edition as your style guide.

If an emergency or debilitating illness occurs, arrangements for turning in the paper late can be made with the professor with proper supporting documentation. The student is encouraged to plan ahead; when such emergencies are insurmountable, the student is responsible to notify the professor as soon as possible. The student will need to submit reports to makeup any class absences and will lose a letter grade when student misses three or more classes.

MRE students: Please focus on pedagogical strategies and faith formation, as theoretical and applied discourse in your reading and written assignments. M.Div. students: Please focus on historical theological as theoretical and applied discourse in your reading and written assignments. The intersection of religion and history as historical theology, through faith seeking understanding and expression is germane to all students.

Class Attendance

When a student is unable to attend class, it is the student's responsibility to contact the professor in advance, whenever possible. The student is responsible to obtain the notes, handouts, or other material for the missed class. Students remain responsible for all assignments due during the missed class. An absence does not excuse the student from any work or due dates.

Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class and students not present at that time will be marked absent. Students who come in late are required to inform the instructor immediately following that class period in order to be counted late rather than absent. University policy stated that each student is allowed as many unexcused absences per semester as the class meets per week; that is, one excused absence for this course. Emergency Policy: Classes will meet when the Divinity School is open. If I cannot meet the class because of harsh weather or emergency, a note will be posted on the classroom door. For information, call the SUDS office 336.886.7613.

Class Participation: Course enrollment indicates students' active participation in a positive manner in the learning process. Participation includes: demonstrating critical thinking, active learning, development and use of listening and speaking skills needed for career success, and the ability to engage a discipline's conversation. Such participation includes asking questions, active listening, seeking out and valuing the opinion of others, and showing respect for peers and the instructor. Participation includes evidence that the student prepares for class by reading the assigned material prior to class and by contributing to class discussions, and asking questions about the readings and lectures. Students will be assigned participation points primarily based on the Student Participation Rubric below:

Student Participation Rubric

Course Grade Evaluation

Assignment	Percentage of Final Course Grade
Attendance and class participation	20%
Reaction Papers	30%
Project and Paper	30%
Poster Presentation	20%
Total	100 %

Note: The minimum passing grade for this required course is C.

Grading Scale

The following point system will be used for all assignments:

A	90-100
B	80-89
C	70-79
D	60-69
F	59 and below

No grades are “given” in this course. Each student earns her/his grade.

I A student receives an “I” only when extraordinary circumstances (extended illness, death in the family, etc.) prevent the student from completing all the assignments before the end of the semester.

All written assignments need to conform to the guidelines in the Divinity School’s “Guidelines for Written Assignments,” available in the Divinity School Office. The following criteria will be used in evaluating all written assignments.

A Indicates the student has significantly exceeded the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted the relevant scholars and has consistently entered into dialogue with these scholars, offering his/her critique of the relevant sources. All the required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is consistently above average, with no errors in spelling or grammar.

B Indicates the student has exceeded the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted relevant scholars and has entered into dialogue with most of them, offering his/her critique of the sources. All the required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is above average, with no errors in spelling or grammar.

C Indicates the student has met the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted relevant scholars and has represented their views well, at least occasionally offering a critique of the sources. The required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is acceptable, with minimal errors in spelling or grammar.

D Indicates the student has not met the minimum expectations for the assignment in one or more of the following ways: significant critical scholarship is not consulted; significant segments of the assignment are missing or inadequate; or the written presentation is inadequate in grammar, spelling, or format.

F Indicates the work is not acceptable for graduate-level study.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism (using another’s work as your own, whether you put it in your own words or keep it in the original words) and cheating are serious offenses and will be treated as such. A student who plagiarizes or cheats – whether giving or receiving information – will receive a grade of zero on that particular exam or paper, and may receive a grade of F for the course. Plagiarism is unethical and against University and SUDS policy. To plagiarize is to LIE and STEAL. Any plagiarism is a request for a failing grade. To that end you will sign your class statement of honor. Any papers identified as plagiarized will result in a failing grade for that

assignment.

Student Classroom Decorum Expectations

To enhance student learning and an engaging classroom atmosphere, students are expected to dress and behave in a manner conducive to classroom learning. More specifically, students will avoid disruptive classroom behavior (i. e., talking to classmates, disrespectful responses to teacher instructions; swearing; wearing clothes that impede academic learning such as but not limited to wearing body-revealing clothing and excessively baggy pants; hats/caps, and/or headdress). Students will turn off telephones prior to entering the classroom. Students who exhibit the behaviors described above, or similar behaviors will be immediately dismissed from class at the third documented offense. The student will be readmitted to class only following a decision by the Divinity School Dean. The student may appeal the decision of the Dean to the Vice President of Academic Affairs, and then to the President of Shaw University. The decision of the President will be final. Failure to follow these procedures will result in termination of the appeal, and revert to the decision of the Dean.
