Welcome!

Students at Shaw University Divinity School are engaging, inquisitive, creative teacher/learners, who are committed to learning because of their call and vocation, to serve and love God and the Church. Demonstrate the integration of theological education in speaking, writing, presentations and ministry. Demonstrate an understanding of how one's spiritual development impacts life and work. Be able to articulate one's mission statement.

Required Texts:

Jones, Laurie Beth, The Path: Creating your Mission Statement for Work and Life. New York: Hyperion, 1996.

The Bible, NIV, RSV, NKJ

Greene, Albert E. (1998). Reclaiming the Future of Christian Education: A Transforming Vision. Colorado Springs, CO: Association of Christian Schools International.

Reading Assignments:

Reading and understanding assignments is essential to a successful and growing educational experience. The process is quite simple: if one does not do the assignments, one will not pass the course with a satisfactory grade. Read all assignments, secondary materials, and handouts before the class meets. Knowledge of these materials is essential to understand the subject, follow lectures, participate in discussions, and do acceptable written work.

Class attendance and class participation are mandatory. Each student is responsible for all materials covered during class. Each student will co-facilitate one class. Facilitated and group participation are quintessential for understanding and total educational development. Lectures reinforce reading but will not repeat content verbatim.

Course Assignments

Students will write the following assignments: one exam, two short papers, an artistic/aesthetic essay, and final research paper. SUBMIT ALL PAPERS VIA EMAIL: benjamin_whitlock@yahoo.com

If an emergency or debilitating illness occurs, arrangements for turning in the paper late can be made with the professor with proper supporting documentation. The student is encouraged to plan ahead; when such emergencies are insurmountable, the student is responsible to notify the professor as soon as possible. The student will need to submit reports to makeup any class absences and will lose a letter grade when student misses three or more classes.

MRE students: Please focus on pedagogical strategies and faith formation, as theoretical and applied discourse in your reading and written assignments. M.Div. students: Please focus on historical theological as theoretical and applied discourse in your reading and written assignments. The intersection of religion and history as historical theology, through faith seeking understanding and expression is germane to all students.

Class Attendance

When a student is unable to attend class, it is the student's responsibility to contact the professor in advance, whenever possible. The student is responsible to obtain the notes, handouts, or other material for the missed class. Students remain responsible for all assignments due during the missed class. An absence does not excuse the student from any work or due dates.

Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class and students not present at that time will be marked absent. Students who come in late are required to inform the instructor immediately following that class period in order to be counted late rather than absent. University policy stated that each student is allowed as many unexcused absences per semester as the class meets per week; that is, one excused absence for this course. Emergency Policy: Classes will meet when the Divinity School is open. If I cannot meet the class because of harsh weather or emergency, a note will be posted on the classroom door. For information, call the SUDS office (336) 886-4974.

Class Participation: Course enrollment indicates students' active participation in a positive manner in the learning process. Participation includes: demonstrating critical thinking, active learning, development and use of listening and speaking skills needed for career success, and the ability to engage a discipline's conversation. Such participation includes asking questions, active listening, seeking out and valuing the opinion of others, and showing respect for peers and the instructor. Participation includes evidence that the student prepares for class by reading the assigned material prior to class and by contributing to class discussions, and asking questions about the readings and lectures. Students will be assigned participation points primarily based on the Student Participation Rubric below:

Course Grade Evaluation

Assignment	Percentage of Final Course Grade
Attendance and class participation	25%
Midterm	25%
Brief summary	25%
Final Paper	25%
Total	100 %

Note: The minimum passing grade for this required course is C.

Grading Scale

The following point system will be used for all assignments:

A	90-100
B	80-89
C	70-79
D	60-69
F	59 and below

A plus or minus grade (e.g., B+ or C-) is used to indicate proximity to the particular grade. At the end, all minuses and pluses will be rounded to the point that best reflects the student's progress in the course.

No grades are "given" in this course. Each student earns her/his grade.

I A student receives an "I" only when extraordinary circumstances (extended illness, death in the family, etc.) prevent the student from completing all the assignments before the end of the semester.

All written assignments need to conform to the guidelines in the Divinity School's "Guidelines for Written Assignments," available in the Divinity School Office. The following criteria will be used in evaluating all written assignments.

A Indicates the student has significantly exceeded the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted the relevant scholars and has consistently entered into dialogue with these scholars, offering his/her critique of the relevant sources. All the required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is consistently above average, with no errors in spelling or grammar.

B Indicates the student has exceeded the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted relevant scholars and has entered into dialogue with most of them, offering his/her critique of the sources. All the required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is above average, with no errors in spelling or grammar.

C Indicates the student has met the minimum expectations for the assignment. The student has consulted relevant scholars and has represented their views well, at least occasionally offering a critique of the sources. The required parts of the assignment are present, and the written presentation is acceptable, with minimal errors in spelling or grammar.

D Indicates the student has not met the minimum expectations for the assignment in one or more of the following ways: significant critical scholarship is not consulted; significant segments of the assignment are missing or inadequate; or the written presentation is inadequate in grammar, spelling, or format.

F Indicates the work is not acceptable for graduate-level study.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism (using another's work as your own, whether you put it in your own words or keep it in the original words) and cheating are serious offenses and will be treated as such. A student who plagiarizes or cheats – whether giving or receiving information – will receive a grade of zero on that particular exam or paper, and may receive a grade of F for the course. Plagiarism is unethical and against University and SUDS policy. To plagiarize is to LIE and STEAL. Any plagiarism is a request for a failing grade. To that end you will sign your class statement of honor. Any papers identified as plagiarized will result in a failing grade for that assignment.

Student Classroom Decorum Expectations

To enhance student learning and an engaging classroom atmosphere, students are expected to dress and behave in a manner conducive to classroom learning. More specifically, students will avoid disruptive classroom behavior (i. e., talking to classmates, disrespectful responses to teacher instructions; swearing; wearing clothes that impede academic learning such as but not limited to wearing body-revealing clothing and excessively baggy pants; hats/caps, and/or headdress). Students will turn off telephones prior to entering the classroom. Students who exhibit the behaviors described above, or similar behaviors will be immediately dismissed from class at the third documented offense. The student will be readmitted to class only following a decision by the Divinity School Dean. The student may appeal the decision of the Dean to the Vice President of Academic Affairs, and then to the President of Shaw University. The decision of the President will be final. Failure to follow these procedures will result in termination of the appeal, and revert to the decision of the Dean.
